HAIL ROCKEFELLER---INDUSTRIAL IMPERATOR!

At the urgent request of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor the House of Representatives authorized its Committee on Mines to investigate mining conditions in the strike regions of Colorado and Michigan. A recent hearing before this committee enabled the world to sense a most significant viewpoint and a tremendous influence working to determine tendencies of society and destinies of individuals. The witness had poise, keenness of perception, a masterful attitude of mind, but above all else, absolute imperviousness. His judgment and policy were fixed, unyielding, absolutely indifferent to the opinions of other men or facts that were produced, with terrible concentration of purpose, he is ruthlessly forcing that purpose upon thousands of protesting, suffering men, women, and children. But impervious to outward impressions as the Sphinx of Egypt, with the same calm, aloof fixity of personality he told of his relations to the strike in the coal fields of Colorado.

"It is a great national issue of a most vital kind."

"We stand ready to lose every cent we have invested in that company rather than that the workingmen of this country should lose their right to work for whom they please."

Truly most noble words—and were the heart that prompted them and the mind that conceived them equally noble? Mere words may be tinkling brass and sounding cymbals—it is the personality and the character back of them that give them meaning.

The man who spoke those words is the son of the world's richest man. The name of the corporation which piled up his billions is the synonym for heartless greed and merciless, relentless warfare upon competitors, for methods that graze the finest edge of the law, for evasions and non-committal silence to all requests for information whether from private, public or official sources. The Standard Oil Company has robbed men of business opportunities, and has robbed men of faith in business honesty and morality. It has created the cynical attitude which queries, can any good come from the Standard Oil Company? And the Standard Oil Company represents a business policy.

The son of the founder of the Rockefeller fortune now affirms that he and his father are one in principles and policies. Little was known of John D. Rockefeller, Junior, except that he instructed a Sunday School class and had subsidized a white slave investigation. The other day he revealed himself to the world in his utterances before the House Committee on Mines.

The issue to which this son of Croesus pledges his fealty is war upon trade unions. He takes refuge under the cloak that has disguised many an arrant enemy of the workers—freedom of contract. According to Rockefeller standards, freedom of contract will be destroyed by recognizing the unions in the Colorado coal fields and making collective agreements with them. The standardized Rockefeller conception of freedom of contract would permit each worker to make his individual contract of work. Save the mark! Individual freedom of contract—it would be comic were not the mockery so cruel.

Consider the marvelous advantages for freedom afforded workers on the territory owned by the Colorado Fuel and Iron Co. controlled by Rockefeller's Standard Oil Company. Only standardized men who have not been blacklisted are permitted to make these contracts—others may not linger on the private property of the company. After being accepted in the company employ, the workers find many interesting practices under standardized freedom.

There are standardized company stores which it is well for those wishing permanent employment to patronize. The post-office is usually located in the store. The store manager is also the postmaster. He sells standardized drafts instead of postal money orders for which the free workers pay the same rates as for the money orders, an unlawful practice that has become standardized.

Standardized houses are freely rented.

Standardized county commissioners vacated in favor of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company such parts of the public roads as are within their lands.

These public roads may be freely used by all bearing standardized passes.

Company churches have been erected where all are free to listen to standardized sermons.

Company physicians and bath houses are free to those who pay the standardized fees.

Company schoolhouses furnish standardized education.

The state government has been so thoroughly standardized that the laws or their enforcement do violence to standardized freedom.

When different ideas of freedom invade this carefully regulated region, standard guards and guns are quickly assembled to protect the liberty of the free miners.

Virtual civil war has existed in Colorado during the past months to enforce upon the miners this man's conception of worker's liberty.

The Federal Department of Labor offered its services to bring about an agreement through arbitration. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., testified that he favored industrial arbitration when the board was composed of fair members, such as federal judges!

Mr. Rockefeller said he knew of no grievances among the striking miners! That statement is given a certain degree of credibility by the further statements that he had not been in Colorado for ten years, that he did not attend the directors' meetings because he could get no information that way. He has relied upon correspondence and upon test agents. These agents are trusted to manage the mines, and to maintain standardized liberty. "I have done nothing personally," said Mr. Rockefeller. And then later, "just the moment I have the slightest lack of confidence in the man in charge—"

Truly does any one think that Mr. Rockefeller has not been carefully watching every development in Colorado or that he has not sanctioned brutal attacks upon men and women, military arrests, shooting into miners' camps, the shedding of human blood and the waste of human life?

Can it be that standardized business management has made him lose a sense of kinship with fellow men and compassion for their wrongs? Has isolation from direct contact with the industrial world made it impossible for him to comprehend the nature of human rights and the necessity for them?

If any man, however cold-blooded, selfish and mercenary, would go among those striking miners, go into their homes, talk with them, get acquainted with the longings of real men for human rights and individuality, such a cynical attitude toward their struggle would be impossible.

When told that the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company equipped with armor plate the automobile that shot into the camps, this impervious man who was acquitted by his conscience said: "It sounds very interesting * * * I did not know they produced automobiles as well."

Surely his conscience too is standardized.

Mr. Rockefeller defended the use of mine guards, the militia, the machine guns that were brought from West Virginia on the ground that adequate protection must be furnished the employees of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company that they might be free to work for whom they please. That statement ignores the fact that the men then working in the mines were professional strike-breakers, shipped in by the carload to defeat the struggles of the miners to secure a fair working agreement that would enable them to contract more freely and equally with their employer as to the conditions under which they should sell their labor power.

Every person who has any knowledge of conditions in the industrial world knows that should the Standard Oil conception of freedom for workers prevail, employers would be afforded a death grip upon real industrial freedom and would be firmly established as masters of an industrial despotism. Of what consequence are the wrongs of one miner to the agent or the deputy-agent of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company? How infinitely less opportunity has each "free" worker to get a hearing for his claims to justice before the absentee owners of the C. F. and I. On the contrary that opportunity increases directly with the number of workers who associate themselves to secure justice.

As all the world knows the unions of workers stand for fair wages, better working conditions, and the welfare of the workers. They fight for these things; that is why they are opposed by employers whose single concern is profits—profits at the expense of everything else.

Whatever benefits and betterments have come to the workers have been the results of their united efforts to help themselves. Mr. Rockefeller is correct in reinstating that the right to organize is a great national issue of a most vital kind.

The workers of the land demand that right and demand that the right be protected by law. To deny this right and to force upon them mere rhetorical academic rights is most brutal injustice.

No man can carry on a great industry alone. No great fortune has been amassed through the efforts of one individual. The combined minds of all associated together in the industry, their labor power, their co-operation and service are necessary to the success of the undertaking. Is there a man so impervious to the molding forces of the world in which he lives as to point to any one thing and say, "I, alone, did that?" Each of us is the heir of all the ages—none of us lives, acts or thinks by himself alone. To ignore reality and to force upon the toilers a concept of individual isolation is to attempt to erect an opposition impervious to the meaning of natural forces and conditions that can only dam them back until the accumulated force sweeps aside everything.

Imperviousness to the cry for justice leads to madness and desperation.

This standardized system, whose spokesman John D. Rockefeller, Junior, is, was created for business purposes. Mr. Rockefeller has attempted to evolve a morality that would give it ethical sanction. He did not originate a theory, but appropriated the specious plea of the enemies of Labor's attempts to help itself. The subterfuge, "the laborer's right to freedom of contract," has been worn thin in opposition to labor legislation. Freedom of contract means freedom to work as many hours as the boss may demand, freedom to accept starvation wages, freedom to unemployment, freedom to work under sweatshop conditions, freedom to contract tuberculosis, to be poisoned that profits may be increased, to be blown into atoms that the operators may save the expense of safety precautions, freedom to lose one's sanity, manhood, or faith in the justice of man.

What freedom of contract has an undernourished, work-worn miner, with a family dependent on his earnings, with John D. Rockereller, Jr., or even with his business agent?

The suggestion is such infernal mockery which this impervious man-creature attempted to clothe with a hypocritical morality. But these trappings do not conceal its cash value.

As between John D. Rockefeller's concepts of liberty for workers and the demands of the workers for the liberty they find necessary to enable them to live like men, the nation must choose.

As all the world knows, the standardized conception of ideal society is a bureaucratic organization with perfectly running machinery, well-trained, respectful, trustworthy agents carrying out policies. The ideal is big business, not big individuality.

This big issue must be decided by the nation. Shall the standardized ideal advocated by this industrial despot prevail or shall the workers' demands for justice be heeded?

It is a vain thought to imagine unfreedom lurks in recognizing the right of workers to associate themselves voluntarily for their mutual betterment.

The nation will not be blind to the necessity of the workers nor impervious to their plea and demand for justice.—American Federationist.

FOR THE CAUSE.

Don't bring into the union room
Anger and spite and pride.
Drop at the gate of the temple
The strife of the world outside.
Forget every foolish trouble,
Forget all your cares and sorrow,
And remember the cause you met for,
And haste you the glad tomorrow.
Bring your heart into the union room,
But leave yourself outside—
That is, your personal feelings,
Ambition, vanity, pride.
Center each thought and power
On the cause for which you assemble.
Fetter the demon envy
And make ye his cohorts tremble.
Aye, to fetter and to chain him
And to cast him under our feet—
That is the end to aim at,
An object for which you meet.
Then don't bring into the union room
Envoy or strife or pride
Or aught that will mar our union,
But leave them all outside.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

EVIDENCE.

By Ralph Bacon.

Day after day she stands
With aching back, her busy hands
Smoothing the silks and laces fair
She does not wear.
Night after night she climbs up to her
barren cell,
Whose dingy walls foretell
The drawn-out torture of the future years,
She shudders, and her frightened tears,
Flooding the roses of her skin,
Turn it to parchment, wan and thin.
And then—
We call together sleek and prosperous
men,
Fat-jowled and double-chinned,
To find out why the girl has sinned!

KEEP PLEASANT.

By Margaret Scott Hall.

When the clouds begin to gather
And the shadows hide the blue,
Though it look like a stormy weather
Very likely we'll pull through;
Not a bit of use to worry
When our plans all "gang a glee,"
We may learn to keep on looking
Pleasant through adversity.
Maybe adverse complications
Will at last a blessing prove,
Let's keep pleasant and get busy,
Laugh and give the world ourlove;
Union labor has its problems
When commercial lines grow tight;
But we will not borrow trouble,
And we'll look for all that's right.
We'll ignore the little worries
When they swarm upon our way,
For it makes things worse to grumble
And it's best that we be gay;
When old Hard Times takes the war
path,
Camping close upon our trail.
We may dodge impending danger;
Hope and Courage will prevail.
Though some trouble may befall us
Let's be pleasant as we can,
Let's be kindly and forgiving
To our erring fellow man;
Then if we should stoop to folly
As all men are prone to do,
Where you've cherished only kindness
"Kindness will come back to you."

SEIZURE OF MAIL UNLAWFUL.

The United States Supreme Court has unanimously held that it is illegal for a police officer to seize letters or papers of a person charged with crime and use them to convict the person charged, unless said officer is properly armed with a search warrant. The decision was made in the case of Fremont Weeks, a Kansas City express messenger, who was charged with using the mails to further a lottery scheme. He was arrested at a railroad station by one group of policemen, while another group searched his home without a warrant. The court held this action illegal and a new trial for Weeks was ordered because his Constitutional guarantees were violated. The Court also held that a citizen may prevent private papers which have been unlawfully obtained from him from being used as evidence at his trial. This he can do by going into court before the trial and demanding their return. It is declared that criminal prosecutions in the United States will be revolutionized by this decision, which marks the end of prosecuting officials seizing papers without authority and using them against persons accused of crime. This decision also reverses a former ruling, made in the case of a New York gambler, where it was held that the Court was not compelled to question a witness as to how he had obtained possession of papers, but would admit them as evidence, regardless of how they were secured.

EDITORIAL

UNITY. The time has arrived when Unity among the Electrical Workers of the United States and Canada should prevail. Our Brotherhood was split asunder by that demon Secession for over five years. The leaders of the secession movement have demonstrated to all wage earners of the United States and Canada, who are organized and a part of the great American labor movement, that they were not honest in their actions, but instead were acting for their own personal interests, and cared not what the result of their damnable efforts to destroy our Brotherhood would have upon the members thereof.

There is no reason at the present time that is sound enough to keep any Electrical Worker qualified to join our Brotherhood outside of the fold. The few seceders that still remain outside have no just reason for remaining outside. They have stood by their leaders since the inception of the secession movement, believing that they had some right in their contentions. They have listened to the promises made from time to time whereby they were to get control of our Brotherhood, its property, and in fact to become the recognized International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, in the American labor movement.

As all possible hopes that they believed might turn the tide in their favor have vanished, and they have been defeated in every move, they have made against our Brotherhood to date, it is their duty to get into the Brotherhood, and co-operate with our membership in opposing our common enemy, who has taken advantage of the division of our forces, and who has used the seceders to hold down the conditions of our membership.

Our Brotherhood has been most liberal in treating with the seceders, in fact we could not have gone any further to bring the lost ones back to the fold than we did.

Our Brotherhood is destined to become one of the biggest and strongest labor organizations in the world, the fields in which we work are large ones, and new ones are opening up for us every day, awaiting for our organizers to visit them. It is true that many of those fields contain workers that do not understand the principles upon which our Brotherhood is founded, nor the objects we are striving for, and it will therefore take a continuous campaign of education and agitation to have them realize that their interests can be best protected by joining forces with us.

We want to have a clear field in order to organize these men and women, who become in doubt as to joining our Brotherhood when they hear the ravings of the secession leaders. Any man that has the interests of the electrical trade at heart would not go into the un-organized fields, and misrepresent conditions. This the leaders of the seceders are doing, and what they hope to gain thereby we are at a loss to know. It is a sure fact they cannot hurt our Brotherhood, for it is a greater and bigger and more powerful Brotherhood than ever before. We are reaching the thirty-nine thousand mark, and our receipts are almost double the amount per month then they were previous to the secession movement. Of course the increase of per capita from thirty to forty cents per member per month explains part of this increase of our monthly receipts, but if we were still under the thirty cents per member per month per capita tax, our receipts would still be from four to five thousand dollars per month more.

than they were in 1908. We have fifteen organizers on the road at the present time; this does not include the Vice-presidents or President, nor does it include the female organizers, two of which will start to work for us beginning the month of June. It is our intention to spend every available dollar for organizing purposes between now and our St. Paul convention, where we hope to have represented between forty-five and fifty thousand members. This we can do if our membership will help us, by preaching our principles and doctrines to the un-organized Electrical Workers where ever and whenever they come in contact, with him or her. It does not call for much effort of sacrifice to do this, and we believe it is due the Brotherhood from every member.

We want unity, we have pleaded for it, we have gone more than half distance to get it, we have placed our Brotherhood repeatedly in an embarrassing position in the American labor movement in order to bring about unity, and we are going to do everything we can consistently do to bring it about. We have nothing to be ashamed of in our past actions, there is no question that confronts us that we have not met, and above board for the reason which is evident to all that we have nothing to fear from any man or set of men.

Our victories, as many as they are, have not changed us in any way; we are still the same men that we were with the trades union spirits and principle in our make up, and we are going to continue that way in the future, and continue our efforts to build up our Brotherhood, and to better the conditions of our members. We say again to those that strayed from the fold, and who are still on the outside, we bear you no ill-will, we extend the hand of good fellowship and fraternity to you. Come with us, we want you, and you surely must want us.

Let's forget the past, and let it rest in peace. We are all Electrical Workers, and have a duty to perform, which cannot be performed properly unless we are a unit. We should bear in mind that our calling is a young one, consequently our organization is also young, which may account for many of the mistakes we have made in the past. Let us therefore strive to avoid making the same mistakes over again, and be guided by past experience. Our Brotherhood is greater than any member or members, and all the officers, past and present, and will exist when we are all across the great divide. We should strive to leave it in a better condition than that in which we found it, so that our future membership will have an easier path to follow than we had. A house divided against itself must fall, an organization divided cannot progress, therefore, let us all strive to bring about unity.

THE PACIFIC COAST ALLIES. A most unique and interesting situation has developed on the Pacific Coast. A combination of would-be labor leaders and certain great corporations, the later corporations have had a change of heart(?) and placed its stamp of approval on an organization of labor (?) (emphasize organization of labor as well as the question marks).

The direct cause of this combination was the decision reached by the Electrical Workers of the Pacific Coast who were formerly affiliated with the secession movement to again return to the Brotherhood and once more become a part of the great American labor movement.

As soon as they had definitely decided on the course, the great corporations realized that their employees would occupy a much strengthened position on account of reaffiliation as they would not alone form ~~one~~ great organization of Electrical Workers but they would have the support and sympathy of the entire labor movement. As usual the "interests" was not slow in grasping the situation and immediately set out to defeat that which the men had undertaken. The same usual methods which the enemies of labor employ was resorted to, as well as some new ones. The new ones were necessary for this time, the old ones failed the same as the new ones will.

The first effort to prevent the grand consolidation was the sending of Myers, Pollard and other disrupters of more or less renown (mostly less) to the Pacific Coast to endeavor to influence the members of the various Locals from taking favorable action. After listening to these advocates of divided forces the members were more anxious than ever for solidarity and acted accordingly.

The next move by corporate interests was to find the men that it was believed the rank and file had sufficient confidence in to listen to. Here was where they supposed the star play was made when Mr. Murrin and Mr. Worthington were selected as the mathematicians to work out this great problem of division.

Of course it was necessary to have everything appear regular and these gentlemen set themselves up in business as President and Secretary of the dual Pacific District Council and Aunty Fitzgerald and his cohorts said well done. Maybe we can save the meal ticket.

Many tricks were resorted to by these disrupters to influence the members of the Brotherhood to desert but without success.

The latest attempt of this combination of capitalistic and labor pirates to influence the Pacific Coast Electrical Workers to withdraw their membership from the Brotherhood is to endeavor to create the impression among them that all agreements existing at the time of the re-affiliation would still be considered by the corporations, as being with the seceding organization, a perfectly natural position for them to take, for any one could not help but understand that the corporations would be most agreeable to dealing with an organization they themselves control or that had for its purpose the keeping apart its employees into factions.

That this scheme will fail is as certain as anything can be, for it has no other purpose other than to exploit those who toil at the electrical business.

We most earnestly urge all Electrical Workers to ignore and disregard these misrepresentations. Don't forget the many glowing promises that have been made by the same interests in the past and carefully search your memory and see if any have been fulfilled. You will find they have not.

So let your answer to Messrs. Murrin and Worthington, etc., be that we have had all the experience with divided forces that we care for and that henceforth the motto of all Electrical Workers is unity, solidarity and the progress that they will bring us.

Our Boston Telephone Operators' Union has over three thousand members in good standing. Some membership for a local union not three years old as yet. We had the pleasure of visiting the office of the Local Union recently and found it equipped thoroughly for the transaction of the Local's affairs. Its books are in splendid condition, and its membership cards posted up to date. In fact, whenever a member pays her dues her membership card is posted immediately, and the official receipt given her. Since the girls have been transacting their own business without interference, they have made wonderful progress. We are sure our membership throughout our jurisdiction will be pleased to hear this. We have now seven operators' Local Unions in New England, and have calls from at least fifteen cities to send organizers there. We cannot attend to all of them immediately, but will do the best we can. We look for our new organizers in this field to accomplish great results and wherever they go our members should assist them in every way possible. Any Local Unions desiring information relative to the Telephone Operators' Unions, should write to Telephone Operators' Union, Room 422, Old South Building, Boston, Mass., whose officers have assured us they will be pleased to assist any Local Union who undertakes to organize a Telephone Operators' Local Union.

The monthly letters are increasing. We are not satisfied, however, as we would like to have a letter from every Press Secretary every month. Our membership like these letters, and they want them, and they criticize us for not publishing a large number of them every month, which of course we cannot do for the reason that we do not receive them. If the members would criticise their Press Secretary as consistently as they criticise us, we would have enough monthly letters to fill our Worker each month.

Have you given the I. O. an opportunity to supply you with your Local Union supplies? If not, you should do so. Remember we purchase supplies for Local Unions in large quantities, and can therefore sell them cheaper to your Local Union than you can purchase them locally.

Now that the hot weather has set in, do not consider that that gives you a right to stay away from the meetings of your Local Union. Remember the business must be transacted in the summer as well as in the winter.

L. U. NO. 1, ST. LOUIS, MO.

Local Union No. 1, I. B. E. W., sends greeting to all Locals of the Brotherhood. Work here has been very slack, but prospects are good for improvement. Many say our city is finished, but we think not, and rest assured that the proof of our assertion will be manifest shortly. Work may be scarce, but the ardor of No. 1 has not diminished in the least. The officers and members are exchanging views and all pertain to the uplift of our craft. The willingness of all to serve on committee is a good evidence of their interest. The chair in appointing committees finds but few begging off, unless they have good cause. To preside at a meeting is not so very hard, but to select committees is another question. When members are so willing to serve, the work of the officers is modified and more effective. The little self-denials rendered by each makes a strong factor to the cause. I have had the pleasure of visiting a number of Locals recently and all being of the first class. A visit to the cities of the first class has been no effect on my valuation of St. Louis and the Union men of its surroundings. Among the many that I visited, to my judgment, the best of them is L. U. No. 134 of Chicago.

The present pass word of the Brotherhood seems to be their slogan. They have no indifferent officers and the rank and file are staunch supporters.

Molicoddles have no show, as the make-up of the entire Local are energetic workers. They are men who have no fear to express their views, but at the same time willing to abide by the majority conclusion. If you are anxious for a fight, go there with a chip on your shoulder, and you won't have to go far until it is knocked off. On the other hand if you have a just grievance and take it through the proper channels, you will be dealt with justly.

Some may condemn the action in their individual case. But let them place themselves in the other fellow's place, and conclusions will be different. Truth is mighty, etc.

Bro. Dan Cleary presides over the meetings and seems to satisfy the majority. Bro. Geo. O. Johnson is now and has been Recording Secretary for so long it seems evident he is giving satisfaction.

Bro. A. A. Hall has been the watch dog of the treasury for years and has the same clear conception of his duties, No. 134 should be, and I think, are very well satisfied with his faithful services.

Bro. E. J. Evans, chairman of the Sick Committee, is one of the most energetic workers for the cause of the Brotherhood and a marvel in the service of the Sick. None are neglected and every recommendation made to the rank and file, passes with but a very indifferent vote in the negative. There are a great many names that are familiar to those acquainted with Chicago and No. 134. Among the most numerous is that of Cleary. There are six of the one family. Three are officers and three are active members and more of the same family coming up to our age of usefulness.

There is always room for such members, and my advise is to take them in and rest easy, for they will prove true blue. I treasure the record of the above.

Another name but not of one family is Johnson. One Recording Secretary, one Trustee and the others true to the cause. There are many who watch the interest of the Brotherhood, and such names as Mike Boyle, Harvey Ravan, Chas. Paulsen, Dick Shields, C. L. "Jack" Hampton, Sam Grimblot, P. F. Sullivan, Tom Adams, F. P. Kinsley, Thos. O'Brien, Tom Anderson and so many that deserve especial mention that will have to be omitted, owing to space. Well be square and you will receive such treatment in return.

I visited Local Union No. 9 and was impressed with the earnestness of the meeting. Having once been a hiker myself, the questions were not new, but they handled them very nicely. In company with International President McNulty and Organizer Ray Cleary, I visited Local Union No. 713, Shopmen. I found them to my liking the officers are proficient, and the members seem imbued with true Union ideas. The Business Agent's report was received with few comments and showed that he had not wasted his time. Success is theirs, if they continue, as they are going.

Owing to other engagements, I failed to meet the Cable Splicers, but will try later on.

The pleasure of meeting members of Milwaukee Electrical Workers was accorded me: Bros. McNulty, Ray Cleary, Brenan and the Vice President of Local Union No. 134. The Business Agent of Local Union No. 713 and your humble servant attended an enthusiastic assemblage April 24th. Bro. McNulty made a very edifying address, and for fully one hour after answered questions put by members. All of which were evidence of study on the part of the questioners. The reception was cordial and left a desire to return at some future day.

Having been long in the game and a hoby, regarding the female electrical workers, I, of course, questioned many as to their opinions. A great many had thought but little of the matter, and some seemed to think the ladies would be a hindrance. But yours truly is sure that all that can be done for the female portion of electrical workers. Will straighten our Brotherhood. The women will add purity to the purpose and when by honest labor they can earn a livelihood. They will, in turn, help those who helped them, and combine with the men to better conditions.

Don't go to the next convention, thinking that a bunch of whereases and resolutions are all that is required, nor with the idea that the fair ones will demand more than they are entitled to. There is but one thing during life that will cause me to give up boosting the cause of women and that is insanity.

When I hear a man declare the women a menace to the Labor Movement, I place him on a level with the man that ran among a bevy of innocent children to save himself from a bumble bee. The girls of St. Louis are not the first to meet with a set back in their efforts, but when the time comes for another trial. Organized Labor and many who are just waking up, to the fact that the conditions under which they are forced are not justifiable results, will be different.

The increased membership of our Brotherhood is a manifestation of faithful labor on the part of our International Officers. Be loyal to them and they will deliver the goods.

Hoping to meet at next convention representatives of 60,000 members, I am,

Yours fraternally,
Baldy.

I must write if I want this to get in the May issue. Will say at this time that things are very bad here yet. I don't know when it is going to pick up we still have sixty-eight men out, and it seems that it is not going to get much better, as the fair work is pretty well along.

Now there may be a little rush at the last so as to give the boys a chance to pay up their grocery bills. It is to be hoped there will. But all No. 6 is disgusted with the fair work. The way they are doing it there is nothing to it from the wireman's point of view.

L. U. NO. 28, BALTIMORE, MD.
Editor:

Local No. 28, Baltimore, Md., one of the old standbys in the East, have just awakened up to the fact that the Contractor Association of this good, old city of Baltimore have got their heads together and are trying to tear our old Local all to pieces at once; they not only attempted to make our own working rules in every respect, but told us we would have to submit to their wishes, and even have went so far as to declare an open shop. We could not stand for anything like that when they also asked for an unlimited number of helpers. The consequence of this is six firms who forced this issue have all of their men on the street. The men went out April 21st after everything was done trying to arbitrate this difficulty. There is quite a nice lot of work going on here now and to be done this summer, and on these jobs that have been contracted for by these unfair firms. We are giving all trouble possible pulling their men off every day and have also had a couple of jobs taken away from one of these firms and given to fair contractor to finish. We have about fifty men out and have all the men here we want at this time, also beg to ask all persons seeing this letter, 'Stay away from Baltimore.' And also tell any non-union men you may see they will be running some risk coming here at this time, steer them away too; and I also beg to call your attention to the fact on last Monday night we put into effect Section 8, Article 14 of the International Constitution, and request Brothers of the Brotherhood to keep clear of Baltimore until given further notice through The Worker.

Fraternally yours,

Editor:

Since amalgamating the two Locals, here we have been going along fine and everything is working in harmony. Of course, we are not all quite adjusted to the new order of things, but we hope to get settled down in a short time. This and that member has got some new idea he wants to put over and so we have some very interesting meetings. There is something doing all the time. One of the newest is that some of our members got together in an effort to devise a plan to get the sentiment of the Brotherhood to call a special convention. A committee composed of Brothers Doran, Bogan, Estebrooke, Stephens and Weeks was appointed to draft up a letter to send out to all Locals and get their views in the matter. Of course, the majority rules, so that's how this all came about in Local No. 61. Personally, I do not believe in a special convention at this time, when we are all in a turmoil, at a time when we are just getting together. Let's get harmony for a little while, then go to our next regular convention, with a feeling that will bring result and gain for our Brotherhood one of the best set of officers and constitutions that we have ever had. If it is to be a special convention my idea is set the regular call ahead.

Work is about the same here. I want to tell you boys, times are really hard; business is on the bum and the merchants are sufferings along with the workers.

Oliver Myers of the Reid-Murphy "has beens" is operating in this district now. He has had some success, but it is only temporary. Well, anyhow, they had to ship our friend, Kelly, one of a FEW, back across the Rockies. He sure is there with the "bull." Now, Pollard was a half decent sort of a chap, as compared with these two scouts. We've got 'em goin' out west an' they know it.

We helped win another victory for labor here in Los Angeles. On May 8th, at a bond election, this city voted by over 9,000 majority for municipal ownership for electric lighting and power. A hydro-electric plant, the first power house on the aqueduct is being developed and more money was needed to finish same and put in a distribution system. This will now be done and $6,500,000 will be expended. It is planed to condemn the Edison system and take it over. Electrical workers were active in this fight, I being a delegate to the Central Labor Council, was appointed by that body as one of the committee of three to investigate the power development sites along the Aqueduct for Organized Labor and was active in the fight since last October. It was a grand victory for Labor in that we, united with other civic bodies and by our solidarity held the voting power. We won over Otis and the M. & M. and repudiated some men in the Labor Movement here who tried to sell us out to the power corporations and the Times click. We are jubilant!

Fraternally,
A. E. Danielson,
Press Secretary,

L. U. NO. 93, EAST LIVERPOOL, O.

Dear Sir and Brothers:

Greetings from old No. 93 returned to the arms of the mother organization. For years we helped carry on the fight of the seceders. Some knowing little and some less until we all woke up and got right. We went along with more or less dissatisfaction until the court handed down the first decision and through some of us started the ball a rolling and as a result we are all over now where we belong and nearly all the Ohio valley are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, with the exception of No. 14, Pittsburg, Pa., and I have heard that some of the boys there are trying to land through right. We have fifty-four members. Stubenville has some twenty or twenty-five and there is a dual Local there. We intend to make them come clean through the Trades and Labor Council. The outside men, sub-station and repair men of the East Liverpool Traction and Light, the Ohio River P. Ry. Co. and the Stubenville Traction & Light Companies are on strike here and in our old agreement we have a class calling for a (3) three man arbitration, the company to select one (1), the Local Union (1) and the two (2) selected to appoint the third, but the company refused on the ground that it was unlawful as their franchise was granted on the condition that all trouble be subject to a five man board (1) to be appointed by the company, (1) by the Local and three (3) by the presiding judge of the county. Now that may look fair, but consider one man appointing the majority of the board and we have no say as to whom they will be they might be men who are seemingly all O. K. and still be in some way related or married to some one bondholder or stockholder. So we went on strike, we have the support of the public and are bound to win out. The motormen and conductors want to come out with us in sympathy if they do it won't last a day. Now here is how we get the benefits of coming over to the bonifide organization. The Trades and Labor Councils of this city and Stubenville got busy with No. 93 and No. 246 committees and done such good work that we now have the company coming to us for a settlement where before we were always running to them. I must not forget that the best worker we ever had with us is Bro. L. C. Grasser, International V. President, a good fellow and a thorough business man. He came here just after we had received a paper from the seceders telling in a magnified way his work on the coast, but after getting his side and comparing them, we decided he has saved us ten years of fighting among ourselves. We all now think there is nobody like him and are always glad to have him with us. This being the largest pottery city in the world, we presented Brother Grasser with a fine set of china plates and as soon as this is settled we intend to have a blow out for him, this week I took a trip up to Rochester, Pa., to see if I could organize a Local there, I know some eight or ten of the Linemen there, but some one beat me to it and got a charter there for Inside men, however I saw the boys and talked to them, and the Inside men have sent the charter back to get a mixed Local charter.

We received a communication from Los Angeles, Cal., requesting a special convention. We don't think that is necessary, and have no sympathy with it, owing to the fact that our regular convention is to be held in September, next year, and by the time the circulars was sent out and returned to the grand office and all the red tape gone theré it would be almost time for the regular so what is the use? We have had enough of special convention and now when everything is going fine why try to stir up dissatisfaction. We should all be proud of our organization and co-operate with our officers in pushing the good work not to try to tear down and that is just what a special cnvention would do, it is waste of money and time and if all the time and money had been directed to the building up our organization instead of fighting among ourselves. Look what could have been accomplished so let's all quite knocking get our shoulder to the wheel and help push a good thing along sell your hammer and buy a horn.

Fraternally yours,
E. E. Roan,
Business Agent.

L. U. NO. 184, GALESBURG, ILL.

Editor:

I will try and get a few lines in The Worker this month. Well for one thing we, Local No. 184, are mighty glad to see the seceders joining with the real union of our craft and hope that within a short time we will all be together and let by gones be by gones and work for a better union instead of fighting each other. We took over two of the Reid men at our last meeting and hope to get a few more. Bro. Norman Johnson was elected business agent about a month ago and is holding the job down fine.

As our next regular meeting is the date for our quarterly social given by the entertaining committee, the brothers are looking forward to it with enthusiasm knowing they will be treated to something fine.

Work is dull here at present several members being out of work. Hoping this reaches you in time for The May Worker, I remain,

Fraternally yours,
Earl Haskins,

L. U. NO. 212, CINCINNATI, OHIO.

Editor:

On account of complicated labor trouble Local No. 212 finds it necessary at the present time to refuse all traveling cards.

This is not generally the hospitality shown the traveling brothers of the I. B. E. W. by No. 212, as we have in the past always extended the glad hand to the stranger in Cincinnati, a clean card being the only credential needed and we were more than willing to share our lot with him.

The past year was very much in our favor as far as work is concerned, and some who knew of conditions then may think they have continued. Cincinnati finished some of her largest buildings this spring, the Union Central Life Insurance Building thirty-four stories and the Gibson Hotel being two of them. We have at present only two jobs of any size underway, the Bell Telephone Building and the Gwynn Building, both nearing completion.

The carpenters have been on strike since May 1st, and although they are not affiliated with our Central Body (the Building Trades Council of Cincinnati and vicinity) they certainly can hurt the building industry when they drop their tools.

We have also had considerable trouble with the Elevator Constructor recently, who have claimed and attempted to install all electric work in elevator shafts. In most cases we compelled them to hoist the white flag, but we have had a hard battle with them trying to get that which rightfully belongs to the inside wireman.

Again we ask any and all brothers who contemplated a visit to Cincinnati in the near future to postpone their trip until conditions are more in our favor, when we assure them that they will be shown every courtesy due a brother member of the I. B. E. W.

With best wishes for a 100 per cent Brotherhood, we are

Fraternally yours,

Ernest Simonton, Sec'y,
I. B. E. W. No. 212.

L. U. NO. 292, MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

This Local Union has been enjoying the best of success in the past few months in the shape of gain in membership and improvement in general conditions. There were about sixty-nine members in good standing in the Local Union when the writer assumed charge in July, 1912, and now we can boast of nearly 240 live accounts on our books. This includes full membership and applicants. We feel that we have been doubly successful for, contrary to the usual run of affairs, we have increased our initiation fee from "open charter" by decisive jumps to $100 and secure far more members at the high fees than at the low prices for initiation which is often supposed to attract the outsider. Our dues are $1.50 per month and the members are to be congratulated on their willingness to meet these payments and increase our treasury. The writer argues that there can be little to be expected in the shape of results until the treasury is somewhat in evidence. After a substantial amount of the necessary gold has been laid away, there is little danger of the contractors entirely ignoring an organization. Our largest contractors are our best friends and it is small chance that a man has in this city of going to work if his ticket is not all right. This particular locality has, in the past, been the "jumping off place" for all the scabs for a thousand miles and more in each direction. It gives the writer much pleasure to help some of the original "rats" on their way when they come in and plead a hard luck story about abuse, etc., in other towns.

There is one especial variety of "rat" which infests this town occasionally and that is the Reed-Murphy man who comes in and tries to put one over by demanding recognition. When informed that they cannot "trade tickets," they immediately go out and get in line with some "rat" shop and go to work at less wages than are paid in our straight shops.

We can mention one in particular who, a few weeks ago, came into town from Des Moines, Ia., and met the writer. He was informed that his "ticket" was of no interest to us and that he would have to take out a new one if he wished to get in line here and that our fee was $100.00. He immediately started out to confirm the statement of the writer and visited the B. T. C. and was informed that such was the case.

He then started to work for the Pierson-Wilcox Electric Company which is about as near a "rat shop" in some respects as it is possible to find and at,
I am informed, $3.20 per day. He went to the building which is being erected by the Ford Automobile Co., and stayed until he was guyed into leaving. This Reed-Murphy alleged electrician handed the writer a card which bore the name of W. F. Bristow, 400 Court Avenue, Des Moines, Ia. He claims some Denver experience. We will publish the names of the "rats" in this town in the next issue and the brothers around the country will undoubtedly spot some of the real strike breakers. We now have seventeen closed shops and I feel that in the very near future we will be able to quote Minneapolis 100 per cent organized and absolutely Union shops. There has been one little break which, in a measure is worse, if that is possible, than the invasion of Reed-Murphy rats and that is the working of a member of No. 26, Washington, D. C., on a job which has been declared unfair by the B. T. C. and from which we have removed our members. The W.
G. Cornell Company of Washington, D. C., secured the contract for the Steam,
Plumbing and Electric Work in the new Post Office Building and several men came in from Washington to work on the steamfitting and plumbing. These men put their cards in their respective unions here with the understanding that they would take their turns with the men on the waiting list for employment. There was one man who ignored the orders of the Local Union and applied for work and contrary to the arrangements made with the Cornell people by the B. A. was put at work. The men were called off.
The offending steamfitter was laid off, the men resumed work. Again there was trouble and this time both trades were involved. Our men were laid off on account of having gone as far as possible.
They were notified not to resume work until notified by the agent that all was clear. One of our journeymen went back and worked with the steamfitters and plumbers who had been ordered off and who, on refusing, were placed under fines and automatically suspended. The B. T.
C. acted and our members were ordered off and No. 26 was notified of our action
when our men came out.

On April 30th Mr. Bankauf of No.
26 put in appearance and commenced operations at this job without reporting at this office. He was notified to appear here and after a day or two "telephoned"
to the effect that we could take a jump,
etc. No. 26 was immediately notified once more. This may seem a drastic way of advertising our troubles, but I am of the opinion that it is the only effective way.

Local Union No. 292 recently pulled off a mock trial and the affair was largely attended. Deputy Labor Commissioner Charles Allbright was leading counsel in the prosecution of the many culprits and discharged his duties well. The only unfortunate proposition in the festivities of the evening was the finding of the "jury" in the case of the People vs. W. E. Kenney for breach of promise. This jury decided that Kenney was innocent and that from scraps of evidence which were dropped and "ignored" by the "Judge Stanchfield" that the prosecuting attorney (Allbright) was the guilty party in this aggravated case. Brother Harry Winkley certainly did costume properly for the "lady" introduced by the "people" as complaining witness.

Brothers, keep away from Minneapolis for a time. We will have work sometime in the future, but it is useless now to come here.

Boost for the card and let us all give one cheer for the good work of the hard worked International Officers.

Fraternally,

W. E. Kenney,
Business Agent, L. U. No. 292.

L. U. NO. 397, PARAISO, CANAL ZONE.

Editor:

The interesting article in the February Worker, on the electrical operating devices on the Panama Canal, has no doubt aroused some curiosity among the Brotherhood in regard to conditions and manner of working and living on the Isthmus of Panama. Local No. 397 therefore ventures to offer this sketch on the subject, on which a book could easily be written, but a brief review of how things are done here, may also be of interest to the readers of The Worker, so we beg spaces for the following.

The I. B. E. W. is represented here by L. U. No. 677 of Gatun and the younger Sister, L. U. No. 397 of Paraizo. No. 677 has been in existence now over four years and No. 397 is on the second year of her eventful existence. Beginning with a charter membership of ten members, we have gradually grown until our membership now is nearly forty, and more than half that many have during the last year, left the Isthmus, in good standing as members of No. 397.

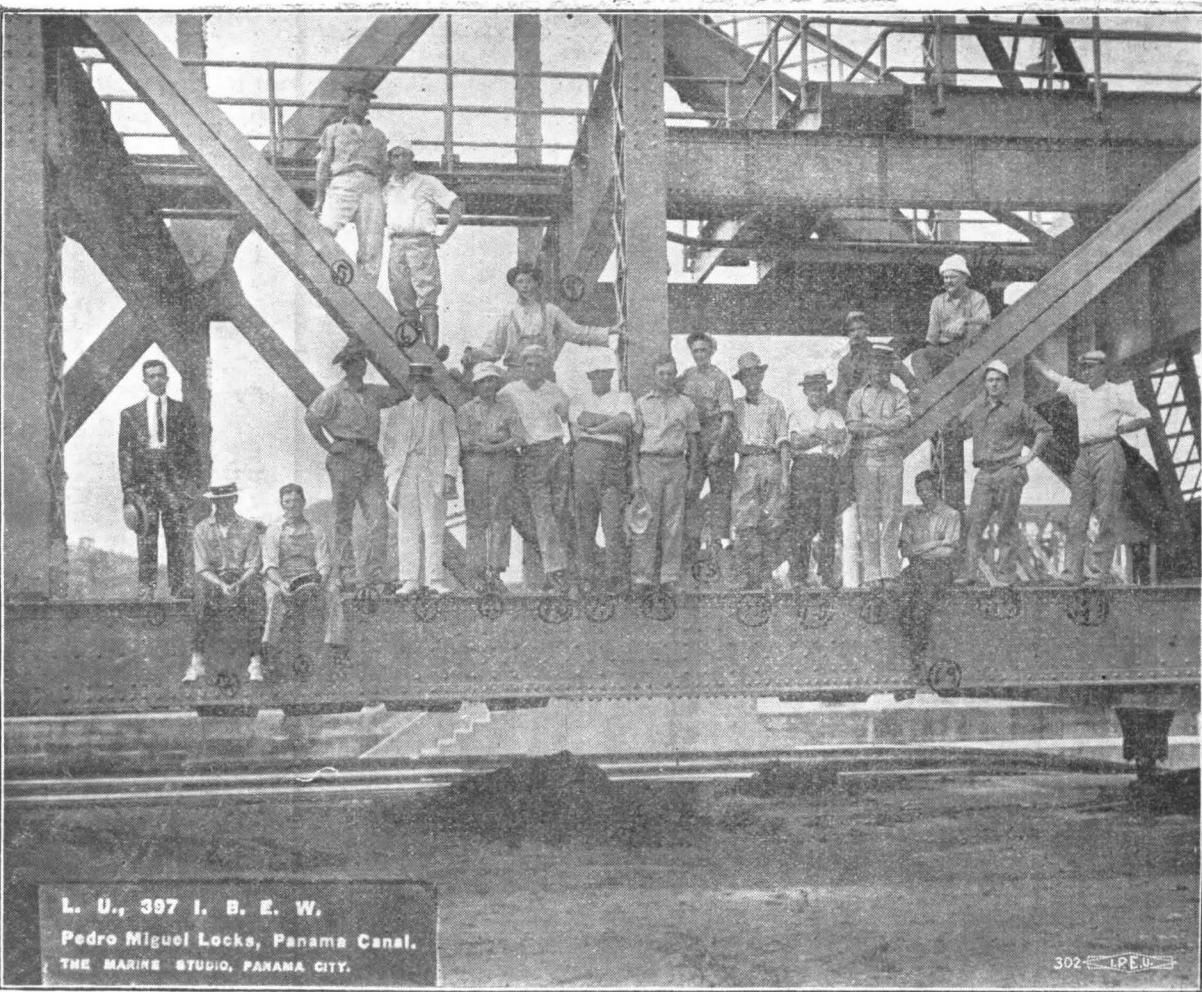

As the working conditions here are little understood, in the States and as more than enough has already been said and written about the job, this letter is an attempt to convey an idea of how things are regulated here.

Officially, we have no recognition here as an organization. Any man, carrying a card here, does so because he wants to, not because he has to, or that it may get him any preference in any way, and be it here said that our membership numbers practically all of the competent and qualified men that are here, a few of the opposite faction that are also here, being all that is lacking of including all of the best men on our rolls. The method of employment is through appointment from the Washington office, by application or appointment by application on the isthmus. Employing agents also visit the larger cities from time to time, to receive applications in person. References, etc., must be submitted, and in some cases applicants have been required to take an examination conducted by an engineer, selected for the purpose, in the city in which examination is held. This, although employment here in the various grades of our trade, is not a civil service position. The result of these various methods of selection is naturally a varied body of workers, ranging from experienced, competent journeyman to the ambitious helper, the trade school graduate and the less experienced, recent technical graduate. They are all here and then some, as our examining board frequently discovers. The wages paid are 65c and 56c per hour for journeymen, wiremen and spicers, and others rates of 50c, 44c, 38c and 32c, according to qualifications. Free quarters, medical attendance and annual vacation leave, with pay, are also allowed all employees. Our problem here, as an organization, is naturally different from that in any other place. We have no working agreements to secure no question of hours or wages or trade jurisdiction.

Our object is to uphold the dignity of our craft by securing the membership of the best men in the Local Union, and prevent the influx of incompetent and inexperienced men, and also combat the evils, that follow from over-bearing minor officials in charges, some of the same being often totally inexperienced in the manner of conducting work and methods of standard practice. Gatun Local members particularly have participated in various investigations, so called on account of conditions in their territory due to above causes, and No. 397 has had to protest in one case at least against the use of 13 and 16c per hour, negro labor on first class journeymen's work. Our protest, however, was followed by immediate removal of the cause.

There is an impression that this is a union job among some, with an eight-hour day, high wages and ideal condition. The wages are fair enough, it is true, there being but one vexing drawback. No classification, as helper, is made except on the silver or negro force. All grades are classed as wiremen, and low-rated men are often doing the same work as the highest rated men and visa versa, and often advancement to a higher rate of pay takes place on account of this equality of distribution of work, although a corresponding advance in the ability of the man may not take place. Many devious forces apparently also control the conditions of advancement and preference, and a phrase that is often heard is to the effect that it's not what you know that counts so much, as who you know! Upon this, we have no further comments to make, various of our members have secured advancement by sheer ability, other non-members have also, without any visible signs of special ability,, and we are holding our own so far.

As to the eight-hour day, it may be said that while it is strictly adhered to, as actual working time, a peculiar circumstance until recently made it no uncommon thing to put in from ten to twelve hours to make the eight hours. This being due to the schedules of labor trains carrying the men to the various parts of the job, often a half hour early or more, and returning correspondingly late. The usual hours being from 7 a. m. to 11 a. m. and from 1 p. m. to 5 p. m. Waiting at the job half hour before starting to work and as much more in the evening to return plus a two-hour dinner period may or may not make an eight-hour day, according to the individual viewpoints. Officially it does on the Panama Canal. Some of the men are not affected by this, being quartered within walking distance of their work. A majority, however, are. The train schedules have lately been improved somewhat in this respect. We also work a full day Saturday.

These are some of the ideal conditions so often written about. To go into the details of housing, feeding, etc., would require too much space. As to climatic and other living conditions a great deal has also been written and the readers are doubtless familiar with same. A protracted stay on the isthmus undoubtedly drains the vitality in spite of the splendid sanitation existing. This perhaps also accounts for the seeming facts that the wonderful system you read about, doesn't always work out as nice as it may appear on paper, and that the much lauded, efficiency, skill and excellence of workmanship doesn't always appear, not only in our trade but in many others also. The pernicious abuse of influence may perhaps also be blamed for these discrepancies to some extent.

On the other side of this there is to be considered, the novelty of life in the tropics and all the attendant sights and experiences, and the close observation of the entire, huge undertaking with its many peculiar and novel means of overcoming great construction difficulties.

There is also the novelty of viewing the native life in city and the bush at close range and usually also at considerable expense. Diversions and amusements, outside of such provided by the Y. M. C. A. clubhouses on the zone, come high. In Panama and Colon cities double prices usually prevail and inferior standards and quality are the rule. An ordinary 5c moving picture show has an admission price of from 25c to 40c United States currency and everything is in like proportion of cost. It is almost safe to say that more than one-third of the native population of these cities exist on nothing more than the proverbial open-handed manner of the American, both tourist and zone resident, in the matter of spending his money.

To enlarge on these subjects requires too much space and we close this short review of Canal Zone activities with the pertinent fact that the proposed reduction of wages for the employees of the Panama Canal will not take effect at least for sometime to come, and due credit must be given organized labor as a whole for the unanimous efforts made to successfully prevent this reduction, and in which efforts we had our part also.

Perhaps some of those outside the ranks of Union Labor will see a great light, and as a consequence, be with us, in fact, as well as in the sharing of the fruits of our endeavors.

That such may be the case and trusting that this may be of interest to the readers of The Worker, let us state finally that this is not an article of criticism on the methods or usages employed on the Panama Canal merely a short statement of facts pertaining to working conditions on the isthmus as far as they affect the electrical workers, and is intended for the information of such members of the Brotherhood, as may from time to time desire to come here. To such we are always glad to furnish any information requested and that there may always be a representative, L. U. of the I. B. E. W., on the Isthmus of Panama, is the aim and object of the members.

President, L. U. No. 397.

THE ELECTRICAL WORKER

L. U. NO. 465, SAN DIEGO, CAL.

Editor:

Allow me the pleasure and opportunity of addressing the Brotherhood through the medium of The Electrical Worker in behalf of Local Union No. 465. I presume it will be gratifying news to all that our Local went over to the affiliated I. B. E. W. in a body, which plainly demonstrates the solidarity of the San Diego electrical workers. There are a few dissenting members who favor establishing a Reed Local here, but I think that before many moons they will see their error and unite with the big movement.

The Reed officials are active on the coast yet and I believe they have been successful in holding a few of the Locals, but it will only be a question of time until they will all discover their mistake and fall in the line of progress and unity. I don't think that one can go into any city in the country and find a more solid bunch of electrical workers than we have here in Local Union No. 465. San Diego is about ninety-five per cent organized electrically and we are after the other five per cent hammer and tongs, until we have a clean slate we will not rest.

Business here is very slack and I don't look to see it pick up very soon, as the war scare will have a tendency to retard building here for a time. We all expected to see business good here this year on account of the fair, but have been disappointed. Most of the electrical work on the fair buildings has been done by Union men. We are always glad to help any Brother that comes to San Diego, but I would not advise or encourage any one to come here at present, unless he is well supplied with funds. We have an ideal climate here and would be very glad to extend every Brother in the country a hearty welcome, but climate don't keep a fellow alive very long.

Hoping that this will reach the G. O. in time for publication in the next issue of The Electrical Worker, I beg to remain,

Yours fraternally,

Thos. J. Campbell,
Recording Secretary, L. U. No. 465.

L. U. NO. 608, SAN JOSE, CAL.

As Local No. 608 has been in existence for several months, now we think it about time that we let the other brothers hear from us through the columns of The Electrical Worker.

We have moved our headquarters and are now holding meetings in the San Jose Labor Temple. Three delegates from our Local have been seated by the Central Labor Council. San Jose is one of the very few towns on the coast that is unfortunate in still having a Reid-Murphy Local. Several of the boys have come over and deposited their cards with us, and it will only be a matter of a few months until we will have only one Local. Then we can begin to look after working conditions which have not received the attention they should since our International Controversy began. We feel assured that with one grand head we will be able to handle the work of the coast during the Fair to a much greater advantage to the Brotherhood.

The work in this district at the present time is not very brisk as there are no large jobs going on. All of the brothers located here are working every day. We are growing at the rate of two or three new members a week and expect in the course of the next couple of months to have the boys all together again. The slate is clean at present as to sickness and death, and we hope it will continue so indefinitely.

Well, if this does not take up too much space you will hear from us again next month. With a wish for one big Union and a prosperous time, we remain,

Fraternally yours,

Wm. Snure.

Editor:

We, as a rule, try to get a letter into The Worker every month so here it is. So far all our writing has been for the Reid worker; but as we are now on the right side of the fence, will try to spread what little news there is on these pages. Work is dead here nothing doing outside or inside. Every electrical shop in town is on the verge of bankruptcy and some of them all ready over the edge and closed. The Edison (light) and the Pacific Telephone and Union Home Telephone are working as small a bunch as they can. So of course there are a bunch of good men looking for a job at most anything.

All the boys here are getting disgusted with the internal war and we can not get them to come to meetings as they say that it is impossible to make head or tail of what is going on. Some few of the members refuse to pay their dues until they know where we stand. So between the non-union men and the union men we are pretty much up against it. We have applied for an open charter and if we get it we expect to try to get the town back into shape. But it is some large job. Well that's all for this time.

Having just been appointed as Press Secretary of L. U. No. 725, I. B. E. W., will send in a report as same.

The boys are just beginning to get straightened out, and have gotten their nose down to the stone. As we have a somewhat better chance to do something now since we have changed factions, I sure wish all the other boys of the other faction would climb over the fence, and I think they would if they only knew the conditions that's for their betterment on this side of the fence. This Local is growing stronger every day all the shops in this town that is eligible to our scale have signed without any trouble, work is just opening up now and most of the boys are working, but not all, things was sure dead here this winter, but I think we will make up for it (that is if nothing happens) this summer. We have started a new thing here now and it has so far proven to be a good thing it's more of a get together club, are a chance to show good fellowship with one another, we have the last meeting night of each month held as an open meeting and invite the Contractors, City Inspector and Brothers all is welcome something on the order of a smoker talk on different subjects and hash out all that we want hashed out, it is just one big night of pleasures for us all. The boys here stick to the old saying united we stand. Divided we fall, we have good attendance at all our meeting, and I can say that as a whole we are not all for ourselves. We welcome all brothers with the glad hand and with a big heart, and treat them all as a brother should be treated. Conditions here are getting better every year that is for organized labor. There are a few minor troubles, but as a whole we are making this a tight town. Another good thing we have here to help the good cause along is our city mayor and his officers they are all for the laboring class of men and help the labor movement ever chance they get. One can't realize what help that is, till one works where he can see the condition.

As I read the letters in The last Worker there's one that speaks of a point that appeals to me that is in Brother J. M. Boyed of Local No. 6 about placing a question and answer space in The Worker, I think that it would be a great help to a good many. I would like to here some of the other boys' opinion on it.

Well as I have said my part I will close, hoping to see many more Press Secretaries wake up and let the Brotherhood hear and read how they stand.

Fraternally yours,

F. H. Beale, Jr.,
Press Secretary.

Reports of Officers ... and Organizers ...

To the Officers and Members.

Greeting—I came to New York to attend the conference of all the representatives of the organizations employed in the International Paper Mill Company mills, and the company to draw up a new agreement, after several days conference I saw this would be a long drawn out proposition and not having the time I turned it over to Executive Board member, Whitford, to attend and look out for our interest.

I left for Hartford, Conn., and found things going along favorably.

Then went to Lynn, Mass., to investigate the newspaper articles of the G. E. Co. importing three carloads of cots and blankets in preparation for a strike, and found same had arrived and was stored on the premises. Mr. Fish, the General Manager, on being pressed for the reason of this activity, stated they where only storing them, that they had been bought for the Schenectady trouble.

I attended the meeting of Local No. 503 of Boston and went with the Business Agent to straighten some matters in one of the shops.

Went to New Bedford, Mass., on receipt of a telegram from Local No. 224 they having presented an agreement and had been unable to receive any reply from the Contractors. So with a committee of the Local, I visited all the Contractors and they agreed to meet us jointly on Tuesday, April 28th.

I left for Worcester, Mass., and attended the Executive Board meeting of Local No. 96 and as well the regular meeting of Local No. 616.

Left for Utica, N. Y., on telegraph call of President Wm. Portley of Local No. 181, to try and negotiate their agreement, on my arrival I attended the Executive Board meeting of the Local and they appointed a sub-committee to go with me. We held a joint meeting and after five hours agreed on the following a 44-hour week, one helper to each two journeymen and the following wages, journeymen from May 1st, 1914:

$3.76 a day for 6 months than $4.00 a day for six months, then $4.50 a day for two years. Helper to receive 30 cents an hour for the whole life of the agreement. I then attend a regular meeting of Local No. 181 at which the agreement was approved and ordered signed. I left for Worcester and attended Local No. 96 meeting, then went to New Bedford to meet the Electrical Contractors on Local No. 224 agreement. I met them with a committee of the Local and the Contractors could not agree and passed a motion that none of them act until their next regular meeting Tuesday, May 5, and our agreement called for May 1st, as they did not ask us for a postponement. Then went to them all again individually the next two days and finally had one firm sign a modified agreement, at the special meeting that night the Local endorsed the modified agreement and voted to pull all the shop who did not sign except the Light Company as the General Manager was out of town and could not give us the company's answer, and he was on record as stating the company would always pay the prevailing rate of wages. The following morning we pulled all the shops and had one more firm sign. I left for over Sunday to organize and install a Local of Telephone Operators in South Framingham, Mass. President

Anne Malloy of Local 1A of Boston addressed two meetings of these Operators after organizing them. I then went back to New Bedford and the largest firm employing fourteen men, signed up. At the Contractors' regular meeting after giving Local No. 224, President and I hearing they decided to release all the Contractors and let them act individually, as they saw fit, the next morning the Local Secretary and I made a tour of the shops two firms refused to sign and will have to be made sign. One we could not reach and the rest signed and we returned the men to work.

I then left for Manchester, N. H., on call of Local No. 719 on these agreement. I attended a special meeting of their Local and the next day went around with a committee of the Local and with a few changes signed a one-year agreement. We also signed a non-union Contractor for the same period making one more added to their list.

I left for Hartford, Conn., and one of the large contractors has come back in line and is employing our men, this makes the fight a whole lot easier and as well insures victory against the manufacturer's open shop policy. I attend a regular meeting of Local No. 35, while there.

Well, Brothers, this is about all of my action for the past month, which has been a very busy one. With best wishes for the continued success of all, I remain,

Fraternally yours,

G. M. Bugnajet,
International Vice President.

THE NITROGEN-FILLED ELECTRIC LAMP.

One of the most interesting of the numerous engineering novelties that will be included in the equipment of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition in 1915 will be the new nitrogen-filled electric lamp, developed by Dr. Irving Langmuir, of the research laboratory of the General Electric Company at Schenectady, N. Y. This lamp will be used for the first time in general, useful practice in the standard lighting in all the small courts of the exposition, and throughout the Court of the Sun and Stars, including the fountains in that great central court. The lamps will vary in candle power between 1525 and 2500, and there may be a few as high as 5000 candle-power.

The bulbs of the lamps are filled with nitrogen, to increase their efficiency. For years, efforts have been made to produce lamps of greater efficiency than the ordinary tungsten lamps. For a long time, it was found impracticable to improve the lamps much more than 10 to 20 per cent in life by various means, corresponding to a possible improvement in efficiency of only a few hundredths of a watt per candle. The melting point of the filament of a tungsten lamp prevented any increase in efficiency more than 0.2 of a watt per candle, for beyond that figure the bulb blackened.

After long investigation and experiment, it was found that the only gas that caused blackening of the lamp bulb was water vapor. With this discovery came plans for eliminating this vapor, and the introduction of nitrogen vapor at atmospheric pressure into the lamp bulb was found to solve the problem.

The brilliancy and beauty of the nitrogen lamps that will illuminate the exposition in San Francisco in 1915 has already been demonstrated in experiments and their use promises to be general.

Awarded $75,000 Against New Haven For Loss of Arms

Young Electrician, a Physical Wreck as Result of Accident, Gets Record Verdict.

RAILROAD COMPANY IS ACCUSED

Lawyer for Claimant Alleges Efforts Were Made to Discredit Case. New Trial Asked.

White Plains, N. Y.—Despite numerous efforts alleged to have been made by the company to discredit his claims, Oscar Fried, an electrician, was awarded $75,000 against the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad.

As a result of an accident while employed by the road, Fried is in a pitiable condition. His two arms had to be amputated and he cannot walk more than a few feet at a time. His lawyer, Thomas J. O'Neill, 4309 Broadway, New York, told Justice Morschauer that, for the balance of his life the plaintiff, who is but 30, will require the constant services of two nurses—one by night and one by day.

On December 8th, last year, Fried was working as foreman for the railroad on one of the bridges supporting the high tension wires at Mount Vernon when he asked Thomas Berkery, who was aiding him to withdraw the switch that charged the wire near which he was at work. Berkery did so thus rendering the wire harmless. It was uninsulated. Then, Berkery testified at the trial of the suit, that he was asked by Thomas Tobin, the general foreman for the railroad, to connect the switch. He followed the instructions of the general foreman. The latter, it was explained, did not see the danger.

A few minutes later Fried touched the wire and fell down with moan. His companions who ran to his aid believed that he had been electrocuted. For several weeks his life was despaired of, but he finally rallied. He will, however, be always an invalid and practically helpless. He was in Lincoln Hospital in the Bronx for a time, but was removed to a private institution.

The reason for this action," said the lawyer for Fried, "is that he has been plagued by people from the company, who have been doing their best to discredit his case. It would not be unlikely for them to 'frame him up' if they could do it plausibly."

The jury that gave the $75,000 to the injured man was the second to try the case. The first found it impossible to agree as to the damages.

The testimony of Berkery, which was taken at the first trial, was somewhat sensational. The man declared that he had been approached by the general foreman following the accident and ordered to "keep his mouth shut." The information that he returned the switch to its place, Tobin told Berkery, would result in charges of manslaughter being preferred against both the one who gave the order and the one who obeyed it. This conversation said the witness, was held a few days following the accident, when it was thought that Fried could not survive. Berkery would not stay "put" by the railroad and its general foreman, Tobin and when called to the witness stand willingly revealed the whole conspiracy.

The sum awarded the plaintiff is the largest ever given for injuries to a workman in the State. Immediately Dr. Brennan, counsel for the corporation, moved to set it aside on the ground that the counsel for the claimant had not elected whether he would sue under the federal or State statute.

The court reserved decision. It is not thought that a new trial will be granted.

STREET GUIDE POST DESIGNED BY W. A. BRADEN, L. U. NO. 134.

The Braden guide post and utility column offers the crossing policeman of the large city an aid in directing traffic and at the same time gets rid of the whistle. With columns upon four or even two corners the officer directs the traffic on either street to "Go" or "Stop" by pressing a button at the column where he may be standing, this causing the display of the words of command at the top of the pillars which are electrically connected by wires under the street.

The column serves as a place for posting the names of the street where they are erected and also for the names of near by thoroughfares. At night the columns are illuminated from within, displaying the street names on glass near the top. Housed in the column is a fire alarm, a mail box and a telephone for public use. The designer has arranged the fire alarm so that the "pulling" of a box sounds a horn which continues to alarm the neighborhood until shut off by firemen or the police. At the same a red light is also turned on. If the central station desires to talk to the officer on the beat a switch closed at the station turns on a red light at every column on his beat.

The column is twelve feet high and 30 inches square and is designed for artistic effect as well as service.

SONG OF THE TOILERS.

Oh, I sing the song of the under world,
where life is lean and grim,
Where children toil in the redhot broil
with mothers wan and thin,
And lest you forget that it's by our sweat you hold your places of ease
I sing the cry of the ones who die of your mighty mills' disease.
Oh, our backs are strong.
But your hours are long,
And our lungs lick up your lint!
Can we work a day,
From the dawn to the gray,
Though your wage our stomachs stint?
Can our children live
When the toys you give
Are the overwrought machines?
When our children are dead
How will you be fed?
Do you know what the slaughter means?
Spindle and spool are spun—
A worker's life is done—
Then put in another,
A child or a mother.
The mills, oh, the mills, must run!
Oh, I sing the song of the under-world,
where life is lean and grim,
Where a ton of coal outweighs the soul of the man it closed in,
And lest you forget that our grimy
sweat warms your couches of ease
I sing the cry of the ones who die in the wake of the winter's freeze.
Oh, our backs are strong,
But your hours are long,
And we breathe your deadly gas!
Your careless haste
Has choked with waste
The drifts that should let us pass.
So we're bottled in
Like a rat in a tin,
While our weeping widows wait
At the black hole's rim
Till the sun goes dim
And the dull hours tell our fate.
Shut from the light of sun—
A worker's life is done—
Then put in another,
A father or brother.
The mines, oh, the mines must run!

Elementary Lessons in Electricity and Magnetism

253. The elementary geometrical proof of the latter theorem is as follows:
Required the Electric Force at point at any distance from a plane of infinite extent charged to surface-density  $p$ .

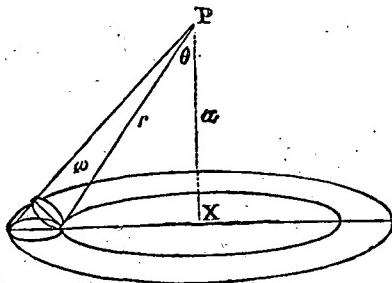

Fig. 99.

Let P be the point, and PX or  $a$  the normal to the plane. Take any small cone having its apex at P. Let the solid-angle of this cone be  $w$ ; let its length be  $r$ ; and  $\theta$  the angle its axis makes with  $a$ . The cone meets the surface of the plane obliquely, and if an orthogonal section be made where it meets the plane, the angle between the sections will be  $= \theta$ . Now solid-angle  $w$  is by definition—

$$\text{orthogonal area of section}$$

$$r^2$$

$$1$$

$$\text{Hence, area of oblique section} = r^2 w \times \frac{1}{\cos \theta}$$

$$r^2 w p$$

$$\text{charge on oblique section} = \frac{r^2 w p}{\cos \theta}$$

Hence if a + unit of electricity were placed at P, the force exerted on this by

$$r^2 w p$$

$$\text{this small charge} = \frac{r^2 w p}{\cos \theta} \times 1 \div r^2$$

$$cos \theta$$

$$wp$$

$$\text{or} = \frac{wp}{\cos \theta}$$

Resolve this force into two parts, one acting along the plane, the other along  $a$ , normal to the plane. The normal com-

$$\text{ponent along } a \text{ is } \cos \theta \times \frac{wp}{\cos \theta} = wp$$

But the whole surface of the plane may be similarly mapped out into small surfaces, all forming small cones, with their summits at P. If we take an infinite number of such small cones meeting every part, and resolve their forces in a similar way, we shall find that the components along the planes will neutralise one another all round, while the normal components, or the resolved forces along  $a$ , will be equal to the sum of all their solid-angles multiplied by the surface-density; or

$$\therefore \text{total resultant force} = 2np.$$

But the total solid-angle subtended by an infinite plane at a point is  $2n$ , for it subtends a whole hemisphere.

$$\text{Total resultant force along } a = E_{wp}.$$

NOTE ON FUNDAMENTAL AND DERIVED UNITS.

254. Fundamental Units.—All physical quantities, such as force, velocity, etc., can be expressed in terms of the three fundamental quantities: length, mass, and time. Each of these quantities must be measured in terms of its own units.

The system of units, adopted by almost universal consent, and used throughout these Lessons, is the so-called "Centimetre-Gramme-Second" system, in which the fundamental units are:—

The Centimetre as a unit of length;

The Gramme as a unit of mass;

The Second as a unit of time.

The Centimetre is equal 0:3937 inch in length, and nominally represents one thousand-millionth part, or

$$1$$

of a quadrant of the earth, —————— 1,000,000,000

The Metre is 100 centimetres, or 39.37 inches.

The Kilometre is 1000 metres, or about 1093.6 yards.

The Millimetre is the tenth part of a centimetre, or 0.03937 inch.

The Gramme is equal to 15.432 grains and represents the mass of a cubic centimetre of water at 4°C: the Kilogramme is 1000 grammes or 2.2 pounds.

255. Derived Units.

Area.—The unit of area is the square centimetre.

Volume.—The unit of volume is the cubic centimetre.

Velocity.—The unit of velocity is the velocity of a body which moves through unit distance in unit time, or the velocity of one centimetre per second.

Acceleration.—The unit of acceleration is that acceleration which imparts unit velocity to a body in unit time, or an acceleration of one centimetre-per-second per second. The acceleration due to gravity imparts in one second a velocity considerably greater than this, for the velocity it imparts to falling bodies is about 981 centimetres per second (or about 32·2 feet per second). The value differs slightly in different latitudes. At Bristol the value of the acceleration of gravity is  $g = 981\cdot 1$ ; at the Equator  $g = 987\cdot 1$ ; at the North Pole  $g = 983\cdot 1$ .

Force. The unit of force is that force which, acting for one second on a mass of one gramme, gives to it a velocity of one centimetre per second. It is called one Dyne. The force with which the earth attracts any mass is usually called the "weight" of that mass, and its value obviously differs at different points of the earth's surface. The force with which a body gravitates, i. e. its weight (in dynes), is found by multiplying its mass (in grammes) by the value of  $g$  at the particular place where the force is exerted.

Work.—The unit of work is the work done in overcoming unit force through unit distance, i. e. in pushing a body through a distance of one centimetre against a force of one dyne. It is called one Erg. Since the "weight" of one gramme is  $1 \times 981$  or 981 dynes, the work of raising one gramme through the height of one centimetre against the force of gravity is 981 ergs.

Energy.—The unit of energy is also the erg; for the energy of a body is measured by the work it can do.

Heat.—The unit of heat (sometimes called a calorie) is the amount of heat required to warm one gramme mass of water from  $0^{\circ}$  to  $1^{\circ}$  ( $C$ ); and the dynamical equivalent of this amount of heat is 42 million ergs, which is the value of Joule's equivalent, as expressed in absolute (C. G. S.) measure. (See also Art. 367.)

The units are sometimes called "absolute" units; the term absolute, introduced by Gauss, meaning that they are independent of the size of any particular instrument. The value of gravity at any particular place, or of any other arbitrary quantities than the three standards of length, mass and time. It is, however, preferable to refer to them by the more appropriate name of "C. G. S. units," as being derived from the centimetre, the gramme, and the second.

256. Electrical Units.—There are two systems of electrical units derived from the fundamental "C. G. S." units, one set being based upon the force exerted between two quantities of electricity, and the other upon the force exerted between two magnet poles. The former set are termed electrostatic units, the latter electromagnetic units. The important relation between the two sets is explained in the note at the end of Lesson XXX.

257. Electrostatic Units.—No special names have been assigned to the electrostatic units of Quantity, Potential, Capacity, etc. The reasons for adopting the following values as units are given either in Chapter I. or in the present Chapter.

Unit of Quantity.—The unit of quantity of electricity which, when placed at a distance of one centimetre (in air) from a similar and equal quantity, repels it with a force of one dyne (Art. 236).

Potential.—Potential being measured by work done in moving a unit of + electricity against the electric forces, the unit of potential will be measured by the unit of work, the erg.

Unit Difference of Potential.—Unit difference of potential exists between two points, when it requires the expenditure of one erg of work to bring a unit of + electricity from one point to the other against the electric force (Art. 242).

Unit of Capacity.—That conductor possesses unit capacity which requires a charge of one unit of electricity to bring it up to unit potential. A sphere of one centimetre radius possesses unit capacity (Art. 247).

Specific Inductive Capacity is defined in Art. 268 as the ratio between two quantities of electricity. The specific inductive capacity of the air is taken as unity.

258. Dimensions of Units.—It has been assumed above that a velocity can be expressed in centimetres per second; for velocity is rate of change of place, and it is clear that if change of place may be measured as a length in centimetres, the rate of change of place will be measured by the number of centimetres through which the body moves in unit of time. It is impossible, indeed, to express, to express a velocity without regarding it as the quotient of a certain number of units of length divided by a certain number of units of time. In other words, a

a length

velocity =  $\frac{L}{T}$ ; or, adopting L as a

a time

symbol for length, and T as a symbol for

time,  $V = \frac{L}{T}$ , which is still more conveniently written  $V = L \times T^{-1}$ , in a similar way acceleration being rate of change of velocity, we have

Now these physical quantities, "velocity," and "acceleration," are respectively always quantities of the same nature, no matter whether the centimetre, or the inch or the mile, be taken as the unit of length, or the second or any other interval be taken as the unit of time. Hence we say that these abstract equations express the "dimensions" of those quantities with respect to the fundamental quantities length and time. A little consideration will show the student that the following will therefore be the dimensions of the various units mentioned above:—

	UNITS.	DIMENSIONS.
	(Fundamental.)
l	Length	L
m	Mass	M
t	Time	T
	(Derived.)
v	Area = $L \times L$ =	$L^2$
	Volume = $L \times L \times L$ =	$L^3$
a	Velocity = $L \div T$ =	$LT^{-1}$
f	Acceleration = velocity $\div$ time =	$LT^{-2}$
	Force = mass $\times$ acceleration =	$MLT^{-2}$
	Work = force $\times$ length =	$ML^2T^{-2}$
	(Electrostatic.)
q	Quantity = $\sqrt{\text{force} \times (\text{distance})^2}$ =	$M^{1/2} L^{3/2} T^{-1}$
i	Current = quantity $\div$ time =	$M^{1/2} L^{3/2} T^{-2}$
V	Potential = work $\div$ quantity =	$M^{1/2} L^{1/2} T^{-1}$
R	Resistance = potential $\div$ current =	$L^{-1} T^1$
C	Capacity = quantity $\div$ potential =	L
k	Sp. Ind. Capacity = quantity $\div$ another quantity	a numeral
	Electromotive Intensity = force $\div$ quantity =	$M^{1/2} L^{1/2} T^{-1}$

The dimensions of magnetic units are given in the note on Magnetic Units, Art. 324.
